

NEW COUNCIL IS WELCOMED TO THE BOARD

Council Favors Assisting the Widows-Baptist Congregation Asks Exemption From Taxes on Lots

The regular meeting of the town council was held in the council chamber last Monday evening. Mayor Holt was in the chair and the following councillors were present: Messrs. Crowe, Howard, Oates, McLean and Lavelle.

As this was Councillor McLean's first appearance since being elected by-election, the mayor, on behalf of the council, welcomed him to the board and expressed the hope that he would prove a valuable acquisition in replying Mr. McLean said he would do the best he could in the interests of the ratepayers.

A letter was read from Supl. McIntosh, of the C. P.R., asking for further particulars regarding the agreement between the town and the company regarding the spur track where there has been some difference of opinion lately. The committee appointed to look into this matter some time ago was again instructed to attend to this matter.

A letter was read from the board of public welfare, Edmonton, asking for information regarding the number of widows in this district, and also asking for the feeling of the council regarding the movement for establishing a home for these widows. The clerk was instructed to answer the communication, giving the information asked for and stating that the council was in sympathy with establishing such a system whereby the state could assist widows, and provide for the education of their children.

A letter was read from Short & Fraser asking the council what they were doing about the sewer Nicholson claim for damages done to stock by water from the town mains. The clerk was instructed to reply stating that the town engineer had examined the goods and found that the amount stated in the claim was exorbitant, and while the town did not admit of any liability for the damages, they were willing to make settlement by paying $50.00 and taking the goods in question.

A letter was read from the Baptist congregation asking for exemption of taxes on lots they had recently purchased and on which they intended building a church some time in the future. The discussion which followed brought out several points bearing on the matter. It showed that the council was on record as granting exemption on church property duly when the church was on the property and that other congregations had not been exempted until after their churches were built, and then only on the lot on which the church stood. It was further shown that other churches in town had owned property in different parts of the town which they had secured for the purpose of building branch churches when the time warranted, and that these lots were not exempt for taxes. Town Solicitor Baird said he did not think the council had any alternative, as the town council specified on what property exemption could be granted, and on church property other than that on which a church stood. The matter was laid over until further notice could be secured.

The police committee was authorized to have a newspaper placed in Constable Dunnett's house as soon as possible.

Councillor Oates introduced the question of having a sidewalk built in the west end, to connect with the Broadway walk. He said that he had recently seen the Red River bridge children in that end of the town could get to school and be considered this an injustice. He was unable to find a concrete done in the matter. The engineer was instructed to prepare plans for a sidewalk and submit an estimate of the cost at next meeting.

After some accounts passed by the finance committee were ordered paid the council adjourned.

There are now more than 30,000 troops in training in Military District No. 1. Of these 20,000 are at Camp Hughes, while the remaining 1,000 are in various centres, according to official figures.

St. Ambrose Ladies Hold Successful Fair

Despite the fact that the weather was not the best for our summer fair given on the St. Ambrose lawn last Thursday evening was a great success. There was a fairly good crowd in attendance and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

The grounds were nicely decorated with flags and bunting for the occasion and the soft light from the Chinese lanterns which were nicely arranged, gave the lawn a festive appearance.

During the earlier part of the evening all kinds of amusements were provided for both young and old and they were of such a novel nature that no one left to say all were young again.

After the games came the dance which was held on a fine open air platform erected for the occasion. Bedford's band furnished the music.

During the evening the refreshment booths were well patronized.

Britons Abroad Are Asked to Buy Bonds

As a further means of strengthening its financial position away from home, the British government has issued an advertisement campaign for the purpose of interesting Englishmen resident in the United States and other foreign lands to buy bonds of Great Britain for investment. The appeal is addressed "to Britons overseas," and under the heading "Why Britons Overseas should lend their money to their country," says:

"Because it is every Briton's duty and privilege to do so, whether he is at home or abroad; because you will be helping your country to win the war; because you will be advancing the cause of the allied nations which you can fight. If you cannot fight for your country, you can make your money fight for you. Because it is a sound investment. If you invest in 5 per cent exchequer bonds your money will be absolutely safe. Capital is in short supply and interest on the consolidated fund of the United Kingdom."

If the investor is resident abroad no British income tax whatever is payable. The holder is guaranteed repayment in full on October 5, 1919, or October 5, 1921.

These bonds will be accepted as cash at par in subscribing for a new war loan, and bankers will advance money on them as security.

A Generous Gift From Saskatchewan

His Royal Highness the governor-general, on behalf of the crown, was formally presented with the gift of 40 carloads of flour donated by the people of Saskatchewan to Great Britain. The ceremony took place at Rideau hall and the presentation was made by J. A. Maloney and J. B. Musselman, president and secretary respectively, of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association.

His Royal Highness, in a brief speech, thanked the donors on behalf of the association and commended the patriotism which caused it.

Manitoba Wheat Crop Is Total Failure

According to the Minister of Agriculture in the Manitoba government the wheat crop of 1916 is the smallest since the lowest estimate made earlier in the season. He says that in several districts the crop is so small that it is not worth cutting owing to blight, rust and insects.

The blight has been general throughout Manitoba, Saskatchewan and the northern states, Mr. Winkler said. He believes a large quantity of wheat which has so far escaped the blight, will be frozen before it can ripen.

Grading on Hanna Branch Commenced

A report from Edmonton says: Grading operations on the new Hanna-Medicine Hat branch of the Canadian Northern railway are now well under way, active construction having begun last week. The company hopes to have the grade completed as far south as the Red River river before snow falls, and to be in readiness to continue the line into Redfield the following summer.

Thieves Break Into A Local Residence

One day last week some one broke into the residence of Mr. Chas. W. Farrar, a well-known local character, and stole a number of valuable articles besides an abundance of clothing and other goods. Mr. Chas. W. Farrar had had his household effects and the family's clothing packed in trunks and cases in readiness for moving to their new home in Regina. The cases were also broken open and the goods taken out of them. As there was no one staying in the house at the time the thief made a good clean-up but it is hoped the guilty parties will be located before long.

Russians Drive Back Austrians and Hungs

The Austrians and Germans in Galicia are still falling back before the Russian advance. The Russian army, according to Petrograd, have made additional gains along the Sereth and Zinta lines rivers, and have captured the strongly fortified town of Tschow, north of the Dniester.

On the upper Sereth, however, the Russian allies at some of their newly chosen line are holding back the Russians with vigorous artillery fire. The German report says that the south of Bredy the Russian attacks were put down with heavy losses, and that the Russian army had penetrated the Zboroff-Konjucy line, northeast of Tarnopol, where they drove out 300 of their men and prisoners.

At Vienna, a Russian attack south of Podkarni, near Bredy ended in a draw. The Russian army, however, has captured the German positions covered with Russian dead.

Petrograd reports a continuation of the Turkish efforts on the Persian frontier, but asserts that a retreat of the Turks has been forced on the southwest bank of Lake Van. Turkish Rearguard, from the fire of the Russian artillery on the lake.

Canadians Moved to Thick of Fighting

The role which the Canadians have played in the war is to be changed from the defensive to the offensive. They have been transferred from the blood-stained battlefields of Ypres to the region of the Somme. For over a year they have held one of the most dangerous and vital positions of the allied battle front against the foe of the Kaiser's army. They repelled continuous attacks of the enemy. If he had said he is charged with having said his soldiers should be moved to the thick of the fighting, the Canadians would have been proud to accept the task.

Big Italian Warship Was Blown Up

The Italian destroyer Leonardo da Vinci caught fire and blew up in the harbor of Tarento, Italy, and 300 of her crew were drowned. The date of the disaster is given only as a day in August.

The fire was discovered in the destroyer's kitchen, and spread to the engine room. The vessel was ordered the magazine flooded and tried to beach the battleship, but a magazine exploded before this could be done. The vessel was turned over on her side and a large number of the crew thrown into the sea.

It is believed that the battleship can be righted and re-floated.

How to Send Parcels To Soldier Prisoners

The post-office department has issued the following statement to the public:

"The British authorities advise that parcels for prisoners of war in Germany must not be wrapped in linen, cloth, canvas or any other textile materials.

"The British authorities advise that to prevent any textile material finding its way to the Germans for exploitive use."

SAM-W. FARRAR IS CHARGED WITH SEDITION

Former Redcliff Citizen is Sent up for Trial After a Preliminary Hearing -- Is Well Known Here

Sam Farrar, a one time resident of Redcliff, and a well known character among the early settlers here, was arrested near Suffield by the Mounted Police on the charge of sedition. He was given his preliminary hearing before Justice Macdonald in Medicine Hat and the evidence was so strong against him that he has been sent up for trial.

The charges made against Farrar are many and varied, charging him with saying the worst that anyone could possibly say against Britain and Canada.

Among other things Farrar is reported to have said when talking about stopping Canadian soldiers from going to the assistance of the Empire: "I can tell you an easy and sure way to accomplish this. We have got to infect the troops while they are here, with an infectious disease, and this is my scheme: I can procure some typhoid vaccination tubes from Montana and all we have to do is to take the tubes and put them in the drink water and watch how the whole bunch will be affected. It may be wholesale murder but these are only men to kill other men's sons, and this is the only way of stopping them from going across."

Farrar is an Englishman by birth and although he lived around here for some years he has few if any sympathies in this district in his present trouble.

The crime with which he is charged is punishable by death. While we do not expect he will get the limit, the only defence which can save him from a good stiff sentence is that of insanity. If he said all he is charged with having said his solicitor should have much trouble in convincing a jury that his client is a fit subject for Ponoka.

Provincial Institute of Technology

A Provincial Institute of Technology has been organized in Calgary. The duties of the institute will be that of making a careful study or survey of the educational situation and of the educational needs of the industrial and commercial fields in order that each school within the institute may be given the best possible service.

The two most important branches of the work will be looking after returned soldiers and the maturing youth of the province.

The Minister of Education has decided that for the first year, the staff of the Institute of Technology will be charged with making of a careful pre-arranged survey of the boys and girls in the province between the ages of 14 and 18; whether in attendance at school or not, with a view to vocational guidance and educational adjustment.

British and French Still Making Gains

Latest reports from the London war office state that nearly all of the remaining trenches northwest of Poitiers, on the Somme front, in which the Germans gained a footing on Sunday, have been re-taken.

From Paris also comes news of success on the Verdun sector. An official report says: "French troops captured German trenches on a front of 100 yards and 100 yards deep, north of the Chapel of Saint-Fine, at the intersection of the Fleury river with the right bank of the Meuse, in the Verdun sector."

More than 2,000 unwounded prisoners and 70 machine guns were captured by the French in their operations north of the Somme from Aug. 6th to Aug. 13th, according to a weekly review of the war.

The British prisoners were increased by 600 who were taken in the Verdun sector.

Redcliff Lad is Thrown From Horse

Alex. McKinnon, son of Mrs. Mary McKinnon, of this town, met with a painful accident last Tuesday afternoon while attending to his duties on A. Duhaime's farm west of town. He was riding a horse to round up some cattle when he was thrown from his mount and badly stunned. When the horse arrived at home without its rider Mr. Duhaime and Mr. Wamamaker started in search and found the lad on the ground in a semi-conscious condition. As he could not give a coherent account of the accident it is not known just what happened. The boy was brought to his home in Redcliff and is now progressing favorably.

Thinks Fleet is Keynote of War

Maximilian Harsanyi, writing in the Die Welt, says in part:

"This war is a question of power or impotence, because of deciding whether the world is to be a kind of a police state or not."

"What pressure could force a quick conclusion of peace?"

Mr. Russia lost all her Polish territory she would go back and invite the conqueror to follow her, perhaps even to Vladivostok. It is said that Russia will be forced to let her army and her navy to suffer German authority, but there are her own resources to consider. When you have deprived England of her strength.

"How can you deprive England of her strength? Favored by heaven or by accident, you might bring about a revolution in India, a Turkish invasion of Persia, many strikes in Britain, or a sea battle which would not leave so much to England that she would be able with the ships of France and Japan to patch up something like a fleet of a great power."

"But Britain is not even suffering yet."

Japs and Chinese Are Into a Mix up

Chinese troops have attacked the Japanese garrison at Chenchuan, between Mukden and Charyang, and have killed or wounded Japanese soldiers and killed one officer. According to official advices from Chenchuan, the Japanese barracks is now besieged by the Chinese soldiers. Reinforcements are being rushed to the beleaguered garrison from the Japanese forces stationed at Kaiyue and Suihsing. The fighting resulted from the arrest of a Japanese merchant.

Italian Boy Scouts Called Into Action

The boy scouts of Italy are to have their share in the war. The minister of war has called out all the boys belonging to the organization for service until the opening of the schools in October.

The scouts are to be divided into two classes. The class over 15 years old, with the permission of their parents, will do duty in the war zone as guards at railway stations and depots. The class under 15 years will be enrolled in the territorial service. They will be stationed at hospitals, mobilization centres, munition factories, aerodrome stations and hangars.

Sweden Is After Canadian Trade

It is the intention of the Swedish government to take advantage of the war to capture a large share of the export trade of Canada, formerly held by Germany, and for own manufacturers and merchants, and to that end it has inaugurated a missionary campaign for the improvement and development of commercial relations between Canada and Sweden.

NEW DOMINION BONDS.

The bonds of the forthcoming Dominion war loan will probably be issued in denominations of $100, $200, and $1,000, or even larger amounts, and may be either "registered" or "bearer" bonds as desired. The period of the loan probably will be not less than 10 years and payments may probably be made by instalments. The price to be paid to all investors, irrespective of the amount applied for.

H. Scrimgeour, of the Overland Greenhouse, left last night for Calgary on a business trip.

WILL REVEAL RECRUITING METHODS HERE

Reported That a Municipal Registration For Service Will be Adopted -- Will Have Rural Recruiting

According to reports from Ottawa the Dominion cabinet has decided to make a complete revision of the Canadian conscription regulations. Although no announcement as to the nature of the changes was made it is understood that while not amounting either to compulsion or national registration, they will make the system of recruiting more radical in form than hitherto. Their main features will be a kind of registration, probably by municipalities and the issuing of badges to men who have been rejected for military or naval service, who are needed on munition work.

It is understood that the system will involve more or less along county and municipal lines. Recruiting offices will be established in the various rural centres, where responsible persons such as constables, or school teachers, or other persons, will be asked to make out attestation papers and other blank forms necessary on enlistment, and that practitioners to conduct the necessary physical examinations of recruits. It is probable that the services of returned soldiers will be used to a greater extent than hitherto. Registration probably will be carried out by an appointed officer in each municipality, and will involve names and other necessary information.

In our issue of two weeks ago we published a small article in which we stated that during the time the hotels of Medicine Hat were closed, a traveller who had occasion to stop off there was taxed $1.50 for a bed on a porch at a private house. We further stated that when the traveller complained of the price the landlady told him that she only got one dollar and the balance went to the Board of Trade.

We published this information feeling that when the matter was brought to the attention of those who had the interests of our sister city at heart they would take steps to have this very unsatisfactory state of affairs righted. In this we were disappointed. The Daily News brought the matter to the attention of its readers by reprinting our article, but instead of trying to do his home city some good by going into the matter fairly, one who signs himself H. Hassard, writes a scathing article which appears in a subsequent issue of the News. In his article headed "That Redcliff Slur" he dodges the question at issue entirely and tries to make out—in fact he says the whole story is a fabrication.

For the benefit of this H. Hassard we might inform him that this paper is not in the habit of publishing articles without first knowing whereof we speak. We might further inform him that we know, and saw and talked with the man we speak of, and that he was ready to take his affidavit that things happened just as we recorded them.

Not content with his tirade in the News this H. Hassard writes a personal letter to the Review. In order that our readers may form their own opinions as to the calibre of the author, we print it. It is as follows:

Editor Redcliff Review,
Dear Sir: I notice in the Medicine Hat News an extract from your paper telling what some traveller had told you re excessive charges by some of the hotelkeepers in this city, for accommodation during the hotel strike here. If you were accustomed to keeping yourself posted you might have seen my letter in the Medicine Hat News some time ago stating that the Board of Trade made no charge for the use of their rooms as an office for the information bureau.

While I am not a newspaper man, yet I don't think that such articles as the spirit that actuates them as shown by the language, reflects to the credit of a paper; far better news at all than such vindictive articles as that. If you were a genuine joker like Punch, Judy, or some of those other funny papers, it might be all right, but for a newspaper, think it over.

Respectfully,
H. HASSARD.

So Mr. Hassard thinks the only way to keep posted is by reading his letters. Ye gods, "Hewie," what a joke. Talk about your Punch and Judy stunts—"think it over."

If we had been posted we might have known "that the Board of Trade made no charges for the use of their rooms as an office for the information bureau." Now who the Sam Hill ever said they did? The Review never did. What, then, is H. Hassard trying to get off his chest? We didn't even say the Board of Trade got the fifty cents which the woman in reported to have said she collected for it. We left that for others to figure out, but H. Hassard would evidently sooner write letters than try.

H. Hassard says he is not a newspaper man yet. If he has aspirations along that line he would advise him to preserve a copy of his letter above. If he is ever up Pooka way his presentation to the authorities would guarantee him a position on the editorial staff of the Bughouse Blatherblatt.

FREE HOSPITAL.

There is an agitation for free hospitals on now through the province and judging from the resolutions passed at different conventions the movement is becoming quite popular.

There is no reason why it should not be as it is the only solution to the present unsatisfactory system. Under the present system there are men, women and children going about with curable diseases and not getting the proper treatment to relieve them of their suffering simply because they feel they cannot afford to go to the hospitals. Besides being in misery themselves, they are jeopardizing the health of those with whom they come in contact, and as a result deaths which might have been avoided are occurring every day.

Of course the movement is only in its infancy and the question arises as to whether they should be municipally or provincially owned and controlled. The Review is of the opinion that they should be run by the provincial government, the same as our prisons and asylums. With municipal hospital patients from an adjoining municipality could not very well be turned down, get it would not be fair to expect the ratepayers in the municipality where the hospital stood to bear the expense of furnishing accommodation for those outside of its borders. With provincial hospitals it would be different. It would not matter from what part of the province they came, for all parts would be paying their share alike. Under provincial control they would be equitably distributed throughout the province, while the other way there might be a dozen in one district and none in others where they are most needed.

The movement is a good one and should be carried through to a successful issue, but we are of the opinion they should be under the control of the provincial government.

Our provincial government here has enacted some advanced legislation in the past and it is hoped they will take hold of this question.

RIFLES ARE DANGEROUS.

We are informed that there are a number of boys in town who have been doing some reckless shooting with 22 calibre rifles, and doing it within the town limits.

Some boys appear to have the idea that these rifles are a kind of toy and are not dangerous but we would just remind them that a large percentage of the shooting fatalities are caused by these same weapons. They carry for a greater distance than one imagines and already some damage has been done by them in town.

The Review likes to see the boys work in all the fun and pleasure they possibly can in a day, and every day if possible, but we also like to see them get the idea when they are young that fire arms, even air rifles, are dangerous weapons and to get the habit of handling them accordingly.

With all the hills and prairie around town there is no excuse for discharging even small rifles in the town limits.

Lock the stable door, boys, before the horse is stolen, not after.

ALL GET OFF.

During the wet weather of the spring and early summer the town authorities were considered enough to see bicycle riders the use of the sidewalks, provided they used a little judgment. It now appears that this privilege has been abused. Some riders appear to think that they have the entire right of way and that pedestrians must step off in the mud to let them pass.

Since this is the case and since several complaints have been made, the authorities have decided that they all must get off and it is their intention to enforce the bylaw governing same in future.

ENGLISH SOLDIERS ESCAPE

Outwitted the Very Clever Hunts in Fine Style

The adventures of two British soldiers who escaped from a German internment camp and arrived in England were told in London. One of the men was captured after Tyne on May 26, 1916, the other was made prisoner at Aishem in the following April. They were placed in the German prison camp at Ransbach. After long and careful planning they procured two complete uniforms belonging to German officers and in this disguise they boldly marched through the gates and politely acknowledged the salutes of the guard on duty. They passed through many dangerous adventures before they succeeded in getting over the frontier. Scouts scoured the country side for miles around the camp, but the undaunted pair managed to outwit them every time. After being fired at by sentries and chased by village children as tramps, after hiding in woods and experiencing the greatest difficulties owing to their possession of the German tongue, the two Englishmen, who had escaped in the vigilance of the German military authorities, reached England.

A ROYAL SOLDIER

Among the most popular of the Royal soldiers of Great Britain is His Serene Highness, Prince Alexander Augustus Frederick William Alfred George of Teck, who was born in Kensington Palace, the third son of the late Duke of Teck and the late Princess Mary Adelaide. Prince Alexander is the brother of Queen Mary, who has always been devoted to him. He has spent more than twenty years in the army, and saw his first active service in the Matabeleland campaign in 1894. Three years later he went to South Africa to engage in the Boer war. He was present at the relief of Kimberley and took part in Lord Roberts' advance on Pretoria. In both campaigns he won mention in the dispatches, and around the Distinguished Service Order and promotion to the rank of captain in the Seventh Hussars. Four years after the war he was transferred to the Royal Horse Guards and promoted to the rank of major. In his South African experience he had the ill fortune to arouse the animosity of some war office officials because of his father free criticism of the food supplied to the soldiers. On one occasion it was said, the Prince and the men under him were not food for two days, and were then supplied with meat which he had violently ill. His greatest popularity is among the rank and file of soldiers and the hospital patients, and the boy scouts have exalted him to the position of a hero.

INVENTED LEE-ENFIELD

Canadian Made Greatest Discovery Which Germans Steal

It is not generally known that the Lee-Enfield rifle was invented by a Canadian, the late James P. Lee, of Galt. In an article in the Reporter of that city, the former editor, Mr. J. P. Jeffery, tells the story of Lee. As a boy he doted on firearms, and as a young man went over the border and started a gun factory in Milwaukee. During the Civil War he made the Lee carbine for the Northern cavalry, and after the war joined the staff of the Remingtons at Ilion, N.Y., where he designed a number of sporting rifles. He evolved the "magazine" system of loading and perfected it during a vacation in Galt and made other improvements still in use. It went over to London again and was adopted by the War Office. Mr. Jeffery says: "In the Remington and Hartford shops, where Mr. Lee constructed his gun, there worked at the time one Isaac and one Vrang. Both these men stole the Lee inventions, and other foreign Governments were quick to secure them. But the Lee-Enfield is still the best of the lot, according to all accounts. And it was an old Canadian boy—an old Galt boy—who placed it in the hands of the British soldier." The Lee-Enfield has been rammed more than once since James P. Lee perfected it. The short rifle of today is probably a great deal lighter than the original design, but the winning principle on which it is substantially the same.

ON REAL LIVIN'

SOME of us like to roasters they pull out their chests and swell around and crow a lot with all reilly knowin' why and what they realize their frailties and shortcomings with them. I'll be honest 'bout their size, color, shape and weight.

stuffs out of 'em; then they set up and take notice. Personally I think a few jells now and agin don't hurt any of us. When life moves along like a song, we're liable to get a false outlook on it, but when it throws us a few short-hand jobs and upturns we begin to grow wiser and saner right away.

Old G. Humble says that a fellow never really knows a male until after he's been kicked by one, then he knows him good and plenty and I take it that if he ain't what you want it's not worth livin' with him.

A Liar Debauch
Rages assembled in the blacksmith's shop were discussing the variety of of John P. Jones, whom Uncle Bill Abbot had met.

"What do you think about it, Uncle Bill?" they all asked him. "Would you call John P. Jones a liar?"

"Well," answered Uncle Bill, slowly, as though he'd studied the col-leg. "I don't know as I'd go so far as to call him a liar exactly, but I do know it's much when readin' them comes in, I tend to obtain my responses from his book, he has to get somebody else to call 'em for him."

WORTH REMEMBERING

When your shoes squeak go to a shoemaker and have him put a peg in the middle of the sole and there will be no more loud proclamations.

An oil cloth wiped around the edge of a kettle in which syrup is boiling, making an airtight seal just below the rim, will prevent its boiling over and must be looked to in cooking which cannot be stirred.

Salt water will clean bamboo furniture, and will prevent it from turning yellow.

An essential of time is kept in the pantry where the jellies and preserves are stored, it will prevent them from molding.

When making hot starch always add soapy water, as it gives the necessary stick to linens, and the iron will not stick.

Shoulder of pork is delicious when stuffed. Buy a nice front shoulder, have the butcher bone it, then stuff it, sew it up tight, roll it in a cloth and boil it two hours. Then remove the cloth and put it in an iron baking pan and bake it two hours.

To save time and work we should follow the example of the Japanese and eliminate all useless things in the house. A profusion of things in the room detracts from the feeling of space and makes endless care and dusting necessary.

HOW TO INDUCE SLEEP

Relaxation is the Secret of Deep,
Dreamless Sleep

Too little sleep is bad, too much is even worse. Many people go about complaining that their rest does them no good, looking dull and heavy, feeling drowsy—when nothing is wrong with them but a lack of relaxation.
Some need more sleep than others.
No one should get less than eight hours children need from nine to twelve, grown women who are weak or amiable need nine or more.

To induce sleep have your windows open, have lightweight, warm covers on you, be sure all garments worn during the day are removed before you lie down, so the skin may breathe new air, have only one pillow under your head—or none at all. Relax your body and mind when you blow out the light. Only in this way can you bring deep, refreshing sleep. Let go all thought from your mind, release the tension on all muscles in the body.
Relax absolutely! You may have to learn how to relax, but when you do, you have mastered the secret of deep,
dreamless sleep.

An arrangement has been completed between the Great Britain and France for obtaining cheaper coal for Italy next winter. Great Britain and France will provide for transportation of coal to Italy and of Italian goods to England and France.

In a contribution to Reynolds' newspaper this week, Major-General Sir Sam Hughes says that England will get the 500,000 men Canada promised.

Austrian correspondents of Berlin papers will as length on a new newspaper, however which, they allege, the Italians used in hammering the Austrian works before Gorizia. It was impossible to detect the position of guns and their shells wrought terrible havoc.

The Bishop's Story
Dr. Gore, the Bishop of Oxford, is endowed with a keen sense of humor, and is rather fond of telling the story of how, at a diocesan examination, one of the questions ran thus: "Name the three only mentioned in the Liturgy, from which the Church prays to be delivered."

Judge of the examiner's astonishment when, instead of the answer, "Pater noster, hodie, and achim," he read the words, "Bishops, priests, and deacons."

Never Had Longevity
"To what do you attribute your longevity?" asked the reporter.
"My wish," quipped the older inhabitant.

"Your longevity," repeated the reporter.
"Never had it. As far as I can remember, I ain't never had no such complaint."

A Good Receipt

The ladies pricked up their ears.
The Marquis was an authority on female beauty. He was imploring, if he knew the secret, to tell it to them.
The count would not matter. "I am not quite sure of it," he remarked with a smile. "The price she has paid for her beauty has been seven hours' hard work a day for some months and sorrow that she has had her hair cut. It hangs out in her face. She always was beautiful. You should see her now that her face is illumined by the heroic soul she has discovered."

"There you are, sir," responded the count.

Just roll it up for me, will you?"

Wooten, Anyway
The proposal that a memorial should be erected to Sir W. B. Gilbert has recalled many of the stories told about him.

Mr. Seymour Hicks told us the other day that just after an amateur dramatic performance, Gilbert was asked by one of the performers: "Well, what do you think of our dramatic club?"

"I think they are not so much a club," retorted Gilbert, "as a bundle of sticks!"

A Peeler's Whiff
Mistress of the house, to persistent peeler: "If you don't go away I'm dying to tell you the police!"
Peeler, calmly: "Then let me tell you a widdle story."

RECIPE FOR BEAUTY SORROW MAY ASSIST

Photographs Cannot Show All—It-able Example of Beauty That Increased Through Misfortune

"Fortune Frowns" says: "You don't know how often I look at that photograph of yours each day. It is awfully good, and I was delighted to have it.
It is in the photograph of you as you were—but how unlike you at the same time! What is a photograph to the real person?" I read that in a letter the other day. Let me hasten to say that the photograph was not one of myself. It was that of a decidedly pretty young woman, she had shown me that likeness before she sent it off, and had asked me what I thought of it, and when I declared it, excellent had told me that, for her part, she really did not care for it."

Photographs Don't Suit Did you ever know a girl who was satisfied with her photograph? But here was the recipient of it confirming my opinion. She thought I ought to see what he said, but she had doubled the paper up very carefully so that I could see no more. No doubt the writer of that letter was told to her the most important affairs that were to be kept a profound secret. She was very much surprised when she was told a lot of nonsense. She was informed that she was with a laugh and eyes that sparkled so that I quite clearly understood that that someone was really very desirous to her—nobody else will keep carefully and read over so many times in her heart of heart, she knows it at all heart—every day of her life.

He was quite right when he said that that photograph was not the real person. It did not do justice to her prettiness. She was pretty when it was taken, but as I looked at her I realized that that young creature when he comes back with a surprise.
She has grown prettier—quite perceptibly more beautiful—since he has been away.

Recipe That Costs
The old Marquis Duvalle heard some ladies at the Court were discussing the disappearance of one of the most beautiful ladies who had shown it the Court. What had become of her?

The most accepted conclusion was that she had disappeared in consequence of being attracted. "You are all quite wrong, ladies," declared the Marquis. "She disappeared on consequence of being too beautiful."

There are many beautiful women which have actually obliged her to work in order to maintain her aged mother. She is now beautiful and over-infinitely more so. You ladies, who are ever trying from recipes for the preservation and the increase of your beauty, might take a valuable lesson from her. It is simple and cost-less, yes, it does cost something."

The ladies pricked up their ears.
The Marquis was an authority on female beauty. He was imploring, if he knew the secret, to tell it to them.
The count would not matter. "I am not quite sure of it," he remarked with

A Peeler's Whiff
Mistress of the house, to persistent
peeler: "If you don't go away I'm dying to tell you the police!"
Peeler, calmly: "Then let me tell you a widdle story."

Put three-fourths of a cupful of milk in a saucepan with half a stick of celery and a slice of onion; let cook for fifteen minutes, then pick out the celery and the onion and stir in a level tablespoonful and half each of butter and flour, creamed together; then stir the mixture thickly, then cover and let cook ten minutes; stir in three-fourths of a cupful of finely chopped ham, either cold-boiled or cold-broiled, and let stand to become very hot. Dip pieces of toast in boiling salted water and set them on a serving dish; spread lightly with butter and then with the ham mixture, and serve smoking hot.

Delicious Apple Sauce
Five large apples, pared and quartered, 1 cup of water and 1/4 cup of sugar, boiled for a few minutes.
Add apples and cook until tender. Remove apples carefully and place in glass dish to serve, and add to the syrup the juice of half a lemon and grated rind of 1 lemon. Boil a few minutes and pour over apples. This makes a nice dessert with cake and is a very rich.

Food as Well as Beverage Meat, that is steamed or boiled is economical, because it undergoes less shrinkage than roast. In the case of boiling, also, the liquor in which it is boiled may be used as a foundation for soup. You will soon be a prohibitive luxury, but it should be borne in mind that it coaxes is substituted it as food as well as beverage.

Whole Wheat Muffins
Sift together one cup and a half of whole wheat flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one tablespoonful of salt. Beat one egg thoroughly and add to it one cup of milk and one tablespoonful of melted butter or drippings. Stir the two mixtures together, beat again and bake in hot, well greased pans about half an hour.

Clean Glasses
Tumblers which have been used for milk should always be rinsed in cold water before they are washed in hot.
When this is done the milk does not stick to the glass, and there is no danger of their looking cloudy.

Curry Salad
Cream together a small cream cheese with a tablespoonful of butter and a teaspoonful of curry powder. Serve on lettuce with French dressing.

fall of Gorizia has pushed forward

FRANCE'S RAILWAYS SAVED FIRST WOUNDS

Thousands of Troop Trains Run on Schedule Time—Smooth Working
From First Day of Mobilization

On the 31st of July, 1914, all the active troops were in their barracks with railroads carrying passengers and goods as usual. The order for the troops to get on their trains at 2 30 o'clock, and at 5 o'clock all the units assigned to the defense of the front were in their trains on the way to their positions of resistance. The transportation of all the overseas troops was finished August 3rd. The first day the railroads suffered alone sent out 535 trains of soldiers, every one of which reached its destination on schedule time. The Eastern road sent out 546 trains only the second day, showing that its first effort lacked only eight trains of the maximum.
After the mobilization 4,300 trains were employed in the concentration of the forces at points east and only 30 of them behind the front provided for the soldiers.

Railways Won the Marne
The railroads became a manuevering instrument when the concentration period was finished and played a capital role in the battle of the Marne. Even during the battle of Charlard, the Allies' left was reinforced by three divisions brought from the region of Nancy in 200 trains in three days time. They had scarcely arrived when the retreat was ordered and the railroads were occupied in concentrating at the center and on the left the masses of troops that attacked the German right and decided the battle. Three army corps, five divisions of infantry, and three divisions of cavalry were brought by rail from Lorraine, part of the region of Châlons-sur-Marne and part of the region of Paris.

The Letup Since
The battle of the Marne won, the railroads were the troops to the north in the race to the sea. The relative calm along the front lasted at certain periods brings no rest to the railroads. From February to August, 1915, 4,500 trains were run, while the average of supply trains was 222 ambulance trains in service. Besides ensuring the transportation of troops, the railroads have since the war added 200 miles of regular gauge and 40 miles of narrow gauge track to their strategic lines and largely transformed 133 military stations.

Oldest British Soldier
Captain Mackenzie Hogan, M.V.O., is actually the oldest soldier serving on the British front. He has won, by his gallantry, the Victoria Cross, the Gold Star, the British "Tommy" behind the firing line.

soners in Great Britain and 10,181 in Detectives were in town this week to see if the liquor law was being observed. So far we have not heard of any arrests being made, which may be taken as evidence that our citizens are law-abiding.

Soldiers are now beginning to arrive in town to help with harvesting operations in this district. Those who arrived this week are: A. Hodge, Ed. McKinnon, Ed. Short and R. McCarty of the 175th, and W. Thorpe, of the 184th.

Mr. and Mrs. James McFall, of North Dakota, who were in Medicine Hat attending the wedding of their daughter last Wednesday, came up to Redcliff to visit their old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Kipp, Mr. and Mrs. Salmon the newly married couple, accompanied them.

The weather for the past few days has been ideal for the crops and as a result they are now getting in good shape for the binders. Another cutting has started on a few farms north of town and by this time next week harvesting operations will be in full swing.

Percy Mundell, who has been in the Medicine Hat hospital for the past two weeks undergoing an operation, returned home last Monday evening. This is the second operation Mr. Mundell has undergone in the last month and although he is still quite weak he is progressing favorably.

We have had a rattie snake skin hanging in the office for some time and the other day a stanger passer noticed it. After eyeing it for several minutes, he asked us if we kept that as a relic of the days before the dry was passed over. We have been trying to figure out ever since what he meant.

In the Presbyterian church, instead of the pastor, the Rev. J. C. Robertson, of Toronto, general assembly's secretary for Sunday schools and Young People's work, will preach in the forenoon next Sunday. Mr. Robertson will also meet with the Sabbath school and the Union Bible class.

Bill Watson, who has been in the hospital in England for the past three months suffering from wounds received at Ypres, writes to Donald McLachlan stating that he is now convalescing and hopes to be able to return to the trenches in about two more months. He was shot in the leg and was at first thought the limb would have to be amputated.

WIVES EARNING WAGES

More Care to Home Work is Warmly Advocated

Mr. John A. Lee, writes: "Why are there not the same helpful, sympathetic women today as there were a decade ago? Is the instinct of woman no longer, as the magnet, holding her to the home—to children, to her husband—to the life which is the consequence of the amalgamation of native and foreign races—do not wait for an answer. They are frank with their opinions that the disposition of women in this country to be veritable housewives, as they formerly were, is being lost."

Citizens from foreign countries have not brought with them to this free land the same unity of purpose between husband and wife that exists in almost all countries. I do not pretend to say whether this is true or not, but it seems to be the consensus of opinion of those who have investigated the matter that it is, and that the women of today are not so interested in the success of their husbands and the male members of their families.

One frequently hears that when husbands and fathers are over-indulgent with their wives and daughters, the women become selfish and unreasonable and are not disposed to share in the efforts to accumulate wealth or practice the economies and self-denial which persons of limited means should exercise. This certainly cannot be said of all our women, as we have many illustrations of the achievements of women in the industry of their husbands, fathers, and brothers' success.

There is another phase of the question. It has been claimed that Canadian women sometimes do too much for their husbands and occupy industrial positions which they should relinquish on account of the duties that devolve upon them as wives and mothers. That there is something radically wrong there is no disputing. If our women would cease to occupy positions which take them from their homes and their families, and devote their time to their domestic duties, what they would save would probably amount to as much as what they might save at their hand labor they take away from their homes.

FOR RETURNED SOLDIERS

Nova Scotia Government Proposes Many Practical Measures

The Murray Government of Nova Scotia announced that free vocational training will be given disabled soldiers at the Nova Scotia Technical College, and expert training in farming to physically fit soldiers at the Nova Scotia Agricultural College.

When the soldier is ready to purchase a farm eighty per cent of the value of the farm may be loaned him, if necessary, for the purchase of property, stock, and implements. The soldier will have the expert guidance of a skilled farm inspector in purchasing, surveying, and cultivating his farm. Farmers' co-operative societies will be developed. These organizations will enable all farmers to purchase their seeds, fertilizer, implements, and funds at the lowest possible prices; also to transport and sell their products co-operatively without recourse to middlemen.

V.C. FOR CURATE

Honored With Cheer of Fighting Army and Covered Decoration

Frederick Palmer sends the following from British headquarters in France: The Victoria Cross is rarely given even in this war of countless deeds of bravery. The Rev. Noel Mellich, a London curate, is the first chaplain in the British army to receive the Cross since second Argentin War of 1878. On the occasion of the presentation the units of the famous fighting army were drawn up in division forming a hollow square on the spring green of an open field. In the centre stood Mr. Mellich, with another officer who received the distinguished service order. In the front the stout other officers who were to receive lesser decorations.

Before placing the ribbon on Mellich's breast the general read a brief account of the deed of gallantry that won him the honor. When the clergyman came forward those witnessing the ceremony were agreeably impressed with an extremely slender and boyish figure scarcely looking his fifty years, and indeed, looking more like a school boy and reserved man of peace than a fighting man.

The general then said, "The general account of the deed of gallantry that won him the honor. When the clergyman came forward those witnessing the ceremony were agreeably impressed with an extremely slender and boyish figure scarcely looking his fifty years, and indeed, looking more like a school boy and reserved man of peace than a fighting man."

When the clergyman came forward those witnessing the ceremony were agreeably impressed with an extremely slender and boyish figure scarcely looking his fifty years, and indeed, looking more like a school boy and reserved man of peace than a fighting man."

The general then said, "The general account of the deed of gallantry that won him the honor. When the clergyman came forward those witnessing the ceremony were agreeably impressed with an extremely slender and boyish figure scarcely looking his fifty years, and indeed, looking more like a school boy and reserved man of peace than a fighting man."
